Blue LED technology – revolutionizing digital impressions

The Bluecam features not only an improved blue LED light source, but also improvements to the digital image sensor and other precision optical components enabled by the use of high-intensity blue LED technology. Blue light is the preferred method of acquiring digital impressions because of its much shorter wavelength compared to red laser and other camera technology – capture a half arch in 40 seconds and a full arch in 90 seconds! Built-in shake control eliminates movement artifacts, so digital impressions are captured without blur or distortion.
